

STEAMER SENATOR'S COUP LEAVES HER IN SERIOUS PREDICAMENT; LABORERS WHO LEFT ALREADY WANT TO RETURN

CAPT. MILLER AND CREW ARRESTED

CAPTAIN MILLER AND THE CREW OF THE JAMES MAKEE WERE ARRESTED SHORTLY AFTER THREE O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON BY DETECTIVE LAKE. THE MAKEE WAS AT THE OLD INTER-ISLAND WHARF WITH ALL STEAM UP, APPARENTLY READY TO TAKE PASSENGERS TO THE STEAMER SENATOR.

THE SITUATION.

S. S. Senator is outside with 150 or two hundred laborers aboard and is apparently unable to either enter or leave. She has not cleared for anywhere and may be libelled if she enters to do so, and anyone she sends ashore to get clearance papers will probably be arrested. Her next move awaited.

San Francisco cable to the planters says a hundred of the last lot of laborers to leave here want their fare back to Honolulu and ask the planters to pay it.

Kinney charges local police with neglect of duty in failing to prevent Filipinos being taken aboard the Senator last night.

Plantation men write to Sheriff Jarrett, calling his attention to violations of the emigration laws.

Morning trains bring a number of laborers to Honolulu, who are reported to contemplate leaving for Alaska.

Alaskan agents say they intend to fight to a finish, and R. W. Breckons associated as counsel with E. M. Watson in connection with attack on constitutionality of new emigration laws.

This afternoon police officers were sent to the old interisland wharf, where the steamer James Makee and the schooner Concord are lying, with instructions to arrest any person who attempted to leave for the steamer Senator, and any person who assists others in trying to leave. There is quite a crowd at the wharf. After last night's alleged violation of the laws, it has been decided to prevent any further departures for the Senator.

Laborers Come to Town.

The morning trains to Honolulu brought an unusual number of laborers this morning, and it is reported that they came with the intention of taking up offers circulated among them by the Alaskan agents.

The Two Warrants Out.

City and County Attorney J. W. Cathcart explained to a representative of the Star that his position in the matter was that he was standing behind the attorneys assisting the prosecution, Messrs. Kinney, Ballou, Prosser and Anderson, who were handling all the details. He was concerned in the actual presentation of the cases to the courts and with the issuance of warrants, none being issued without his knowledge or direction. He reported that the warrant issued last night for the arrest of "Frank B. Craig, John Doe and Richard Roe," had been cancelled and that two fresh warrants under the new law had been issued for the apprehension of Frank B. Craig and J. C. Bell.

Will Enforce the Laws.

With regard to the laborers already on board the Senator, Attorney Cathcart remarked that he thought there were between 100 and 140. They were recruited mainly from men around town, where the labor supply was plentiful, and though there were a number of men from the criminal classes yet there were also a lot of good people among them. "They are welcome to the men on board," he said. "We have no objection to anyone working in Hawaii from leaving the Territory if they wish to, but we do object to people coming here from San Francisco and violating our laws, and we are not going to stand by and see them do it."

Concord Was Prepared.

Along the waterfront this morning the James Makee and the Concord were of particular interest. An examination of the latter vessel's papers was made by an officer from the Thetis. It is understood that everything was found in order, even to the passenger-carrying license. It would seem this point in the great game had not been overlooked.

One man who should be authoritative stated that the recruiters only wanted 125 more men. But there was no verification of this forthcoming.

F. B. Craig and J. C. Bell were aboard the Senator this morning. Bell did not sleep at the Alexander Young Hotel last night, and it is understood that he slept on the Senator all night, or rather after the exciting events of the evening had been disposed of.

Attorneys Dorn and Fernalde went out to the Senator this morning in Captain Miller's Spray.

Harry Lake, who was lying in wait for Bell, saw Dorn and Fernalde coming. He thought that the latter was Bell, and he shouted: "Bell, O Bell." Fernalde turned around rapidly. Lake said, "Isn't your name Bell?" "Oh, no," the other answered, "It's Fernalde."

Went to the Senator.

Lake then replied: "No; it's Bell." But the other reassured him by showing his visiting card and the name on his coat. Dorn and Fernalde then went out to the Senator. The Senator which had been lying away toward Pearl Harbor, as soon as the launch was under way, began to move up towards the channel, keeping well outside the three-mile limit. She stopped for awhile, and evidently the launch remained at her side, for it could not be seen. She then headed directly south, as though she were making towards Australia. Shortly afterwards the customs launch went out to her, and then she came back again, and after cruising about for awhile the customs men got alongside, but whether they boarded her or not could not be seen from the land.

Some Wanted to Go.

Some of the men on the wharf wanted to get away in the Senator. Some of them didn't. One sagely said that when he wanted to go up that way he would pay his fare, and he wouldn't go to the canneries either. One man came down with a grip and a sore head. He sadly related how all his things were on board the Senator, and at the moment he could not see how he was going to join them. It seems last night he was on the dock, and he was told when he showed anxiety to get on, not to hurry, as there would be another boat going to the Senator. He then went into a comfortable spot and took something along to cheer him up while he waited. The wait was a long one, and he did not know anything till this morning, when he found that he had been "stewed," in his own classic language, and he was still holding his fevered brow at nearly eleven o'clock. He was waiting around in the hopes that he would get a boat away to the Senator.

Plans Fell Through.

This man's story would seem to indicate that the visitors had intended to get all the men they required last night and then leave. The intervention of the police and others, however, evidently upset their plans. But from what can be learned in other directions, the whole thing was planned out. Craig evidently was in wireless communication with the Senator and kept the people on board well posted. But this idea of taking her outside the three-mile limit was evidently well planned. One of the officers on board the Senator as she pulled out yesterday afternoon shook hands with himself, to indicate that he was saying good-bye to his friend, as the vessel did not intend to return.

Might Detain Vessel.

The Customs men have no jurisdiction over her at all, it is said, with the exception that she will have to clear before she leaves these islands. Judge Davis and Federal Clerk Murphy were down at the waterfront this morning, but as far as could be gathered their visit was merely unofficial, and had nothing whatever to do with any official action that might be contemplated. While on the wharf Davis stated that for cause the U. S. Marshal could go out and arrest the Senator.

Craig gave it out that when he first came here he offered to meet the sugar planters in this matter. He stated that he went to them and said that he would like to co-operate with them in the matter of securing the men he wanted. But he alleges his overtures met with no response at all, except rebuffs at every stage of the game. Craig is out at the Senator, and there is no change of getting him. He is quoted, however, as declaring that the Alaska Packers' Association proposes to fight to a finish.

Says Craig Isn't Going.

The new charge against Craig is laid under the legislation just passed locally and Bell is charged under the same statute. Craig has not been seen since yesterday and his attorney, Ed. M. Watson, is just as much in the dark as are the sheriff's officers as to Craig's whereabouts, though Mr. Watson is emphatic in expressing the opinion that Craig is not preparing to make his getaway on the Senator. Craig has a matter of $1815 in the hands of the local officials, three sums of $600 each being deposited as bail in the cases against himself, Alvarado and Baltazar, and $15 deposited as bail for the fifteen Filipino witnesses who are to appear before the Supreme Court tomorrow morning on the application for a writ of Habeas Corpus. Craig is also due to appear at the same time and it is the opinion of his attorney that he will be on hand.

Breckons in the Case.

Associated with Watson in the defence of Craig on this new statute will be District Attorney R. W. Breckons, who will join in contesting the validity of the new law. In the other matters against Craig, Breckons will not appear, Watson conducting the defence with the assistance, perhaps, of Winfield Dorn, of the firm of Chickering and Gregory, of San Francisco.

Laborers Would Return.

The attorneys representing the prosecution in these matters spent a busy morning in consultation with City and County Attorney Cathcart. A telegram was received from San Francisco stating that the laborers who left Honolulu on the Wilhelmina and the Korea dispersed immediately after the arrival of the two ships at San Francisco, and that one hundred

MAHUKA ANSWERS

An answer of defendants John A. Cummins, Charles Mahoe and Hattie Mahoe to the complaint of the United States in the condemnation suit in connection with the Federal building site has been filed by their attorney, Lorin Andrews.

Allegations defining the boundaries of the entire site to be used for the purposes in question giving a list of all the claimants to ownership of and interest in the property sought to be condemned, and that it is the intention of the petitioner in good faith to complete the work and improvements for which the said tract and parcel of land, with its appurtenances, is sought to be acquired and condemned, are each and every one specifically and particularly denied.

The above named defendants demand that said petition be dismissed. Demurrers to the petition have also been filed on behalf, respectively, of Cushman Carter, trustee, and Aliana B. Austin et al., executors and testamentary trustees under the will of James W. Austin, deceased, both by Holmes Stanley & Olson, attorneys.

DORN BACK FROM SENATOR

Attorney Dorn when seen as he stepped off the launch on to the Hackfeld wharf after his visit to the Senator, said that he preferred to say nothing at all. "I would like to help you fellows very much," he said, "but I can't. I know how it is. But I really can't say anything. I would prefer to say nothing just now. We are not backing the Sugar Planters at all. We did not know what we were up against until we got here. No; I'd prefer not to say anything about the number on board. I would also not prefer to say when we expect to sail. I've just brought my trunk ashore."

Mr. Dorn was courteous and pleasant, but he was firm in his refusal to give any information.

Some Filipinos, mere boys, returned by the launch also. When asked why they returned from the Senator, one answered in his pidgin English: "Must wait until cases is pan; no can go now."

The regular monthly meeting of the Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Association will be held Friday morning, April 7, at 9:30, in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

NATIONAL GUARD ORDERS FOR THE TEXAS MANEUVER

The following is from the Bulletin of Militia Notes issued by the Division of Militia Affairs, War Department, March 22, 1911: It is the intention of the War Department to authorize the attendance of approximately 1000 militia officers at the maneuver camps near San Antonio, Texas, and San Diego California. It has been found necessary to limit the first detail to attend the maneuvers near San Antonio, Texas, to 200, and the detail to the maneuvers near San Diego, Cal., to 35. Each detail will remain at the maneuver camp 14 days. The allotment of officers from each state and territory is based on its pro rata strength of the organized militia of the United States. Hawaii's pro rata would be about five. The militia officers designated to attend these camps will take with them their full equipment, including bedding and mess kit. Mounted officers will take their horse equipment. The adjutants-general of the respective states and territories will furnish the chief quartermaster of the department to which the state or territory belongs with the names, rank and addresses of the militia officers selected to attend the maneuvers, in order that he may furnish to these officers direct transportation requests covering their travel from their home stations to San Antonio or San Diego, as the case may be and return
